FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1887.

We are glad to observe that during the recess the North West Territories are to be visited by several of the Cabinet Ministers. Sir John Macdonald is expected to visit the now famed resort, Banff Springs. The Hon. Mr. Thompson, it is reported, will visit Manitoba and the Territories and Hon. Thos. White will also visit the Far West, including, it is anticipated, our own town among others on the route. Here he will be sure of a hearty welcome. His visit of a few days ago nothing but pleasant impressions and was productive of much benefit to us. The continued interest Ministers are taking in the North West, as evidenced by their personal visits year by year, is highly commendable. Information on the state of the country and its requirements is thus obtainable in its most reliable form and must have a more lively and lasting influence on the Minister's mind than that produced by the reading of meagre and dull departmental reports or newspaper paragraphs however brightly and trust-worthily.

We observe Mr. White recently introduced a bill into the House proposing to grant land bonuses to certain railways, amongst others the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan, which as now projected is to cross the South Branch at the point where the fifty second parallel of latitude cuts the river; thus touching the Elbow on the North Saskatchewan, with branches each about eighty five miles in length to Battleford and Prince Albert. As it is indispensable that we should have railway communication and most desirable it should be got with the least possible delay, it is to be hoped this bill will be pushed through vigorously. We should have been quite as well pleased had our first railway connection with the outer world been formed east, but as this is no longer a possibility of lines running into this market, we cannot but welcome the scheme. As such will be a boon to the development of the great north-west. The Saskatchewan.

Taking of tickets monthly begins up to the Red River Valley, according to the Montreal advertisement which has appeared in the newspapers.

connection with which present indications would seem to point to a collision of some sort between the Federal and the Provincial Governments. We trust the presence of the Premier and other Ministers will have a sedative effect on the nerves of those worthy citizens of Winnipeg who have got worked up to a state of unnecessary excitement over this question, and that the united wisdom of statesmen—assisted by the calmer judgment of those Winnipeggers who have not lost their heads—will find a peaceful way out of the difficulty, and the bellicose threats of the Free Press be thereby rendered innocuous. Following up previous articles on disallowance—some of them savage enough—that warlike journal came out on the 17th with what it calls Manitoba's warning, the tone of which would be extremely reprehensible were it not so extravagant as to become amusing. It says, "It ill becomes the despotic Government that has fallen on all fours, once before a few half-breeds in Manitoba, and once before a few hundred settlers in the Saskatchewan to forbid a warning from the 100,000 people of this Province who are now the verge of rebellion in the year of grace 1887." And it winds up thus: "If we are interfered with now there will be trouble such as Canada never saw in the lurid moments of past convulsions; there will be a rebellion such as the sleeping Gods at Ottawa have never dreamed of." Surely no one outside the Free Press office will imagine this can by any possibility assist the cause they are professing such zeal for. We doubt not the Federal Government in dealing with this question will pursue a dignified and straightforward course, and in whatever arrangements they may become parties to, they will not forget that national faith must be kept and that "reputation" in any form has never been a characteristic of those who live under the British flag.

COMMUNICATIONS.

It must be distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements or expressions of correspondents. Correspondents must give their names in full, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

"SEED GRAIN"

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—I reluctantly intrude upon your column, as I fear your readers must be sick of the subject by this time and still blame to them.

As I fully anticipated, Mr. McTaggart has put his letter in it, but in a way and with a completeness for which I was surprised. I will leave aside the verbiage and irrelevant rubbish that overlies his facts in terms of 24th June, and confine my remarks to a point or two that seem to require attention.

In the first place he refers to what he calls the attack made upon him "Quoted" by the seed grain committee, but which was doubtless a covert and malignant attack from another source.

However that may be, Mr. Craig, strange to say, has been prepared upon to come before me, and by so doing commits himself to its responsibility. Now I should have said, Mr. McTaggart to have been a little more explicit now, because I should then have had the satisfaction of calling his statement a deliberate falsehood. As it is, I can call it a challenge and have indignation. It is shameful because it can give an unjust impression on me, as I have and mean because it shows me that society will be fairly won. It is a direct attempt to injure a fellow man, and being all this, it deserves and I think will receive the reputation of every honest man.

But, where remains behind. Mr. McTaggart goes into the record of Mr. McTaggart's name in which he pretends to say that the facts are really astonishing.

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

Mr. McTaggart says, "Mr. McTaggart says."

ver, but the remainder of this statement is simply untrue. Mr. McTaggart gave notice of his requirements through me on 13th April—I do not quote from memory and I was not alone on the occasion as Mr. McTaggart will no doubt recollect when he thinks the matter over—and these requirements were for twenty to thirty bushels of barley. I never spoke of barley. But more than this Mr. McTaggart on hearing from me went personally the very next day to try to get the oats and saw Mr. McTaggart himself at the Land Office, and so far was he from being "through with other seedling" that he had not then even commenced! Regarding what passed at this interview I have no personal knowledge because I was not present, but Mr. McTaggart himself is likely to be heard from on this point.

Finally, when Mr. McTaggart asserts "Mr. Craig admits that I offered him (i.e. Mr. McTaggart) the barley sub-sequently" he again makes a statement which can be easily disproved by referring to my former letter.

I will not proceed further. I think the position Mr. McTaggart has put himself into is not an enviable one, but I have no desire to aggravate it.

Yours truly,
WM. CRAIG

A UNIQUE WORK ON CANADIAN TOPICS.

Mr. Erasmus Wilson, President of the Canadian Club, writes to the editor of this paper as follows:

"It is the intention of certain members of the Canadian Club in New York to issue, in the form of a beautiful book, the papers which have been delivered before the Club during the past winter by prominent parties, together with those which are to be delivered during the remainder of the season."

"These papers will include a speech on 'Commercial Union,' by the Hon. Benjamin Botwell, member of Congress, who is said to be one of the most eloquent of that body. A remarkable production by Prof. Goldwin Smith on 'The Scism in the Anglo-Saxon Race.' A paper by Dr. Grant of the Queen's University on 'Canada First.' One by J. W. Bengough, Editor of Toronto Grip. By Mr. Lemieux, of Quebec, on 'The Hermines of New France.' By J. A. Fearn, 'An Artist's Experience in the Canadian Rockies.' By Edmund Collins, on 'The Future of Canada.' By Prof. G. D. Roberts, of King's College. By Gen. Stewart, Jr., of Quebec. By the Rev. Dr. Eccleston, on 'Canadian North West.' By John McDougall, 'The Minerals of Canada.' And by the Editor G. D. Fairchild, Jr., on 'The History of the Canadian Club.' This work will also include extracts from the speeches and letters of the President."

"The book is to be issued in beautiful style, at $1 per copy."

A great many Canadians will doubtless desire to possess themselves of this rare compilation, and, by purchasing copies, indicate the interest which is manifested throughout Canada in the attempt of the Canadian Club to lay before America the resources, advantages, and attractions of their native country.

"Parties desirous of obtaining copies can do so by enclosing the price of the book to James Ross, Canadian Club, 12 East 23d Street, New York."

ST. ANN'S CONVENT

Second Annual Distribution of Prizes.

On Thursday the 23rd the second annual distribution of prizes in the above educational institution took place, with the usual religious services. The ladies of the convent had extended their kindness not only to the parents and pupils, but to many of the prominent residents, and there was a large turn out for the sake of the town and immediate neighborhood. Hon. L. Clarke presided with his usual tact and bonhomie. There was a very elaborate and exceedingly attractive programme provided for the entertainment of the visitors, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and recitations, which were admirably executed by the young lady pupils. At many stages of the proceedings an appeal was made by Mr. Clarke from the pupils, who were very readily spoken for by Miss Spence, and after the interesting programme had been concluded, Mr. Clarke spoke as follows:

LADY SUPERIOR OF ST. ANN'S CONVENT.
I thank you very much for the work of art extending my photo accompanying the address you have presented me with. I thank you more especially for the kind expressions of regard for myself. In the presence of your hearts, I fear you have been complimentary. If I have been of any service in helping the progress of your school, 'tis more than gratifying to me that my efforts have not been altogether vain. The marked advance you have made in your studies, the past year, and your sense of keen pleasure in your advancement, and very gratifying to your teachers. The increased number of students attending the school shows the full appreciation, and high standing it holds in public estimation. The rapid development of our town and surrounding country will increase the prosperity of your seminary and the day is not far distant when a small new institution will be founded in capacity and usefulness. Young ladies, not only to your parents, but to the entire community of Prince Albert, you have not only given us an intellectual treat, in witnessing the performance of the programme of the day, but also a good feeling of satisfaction that our girls are acquiring an intellectual, moral and physical training that in the future must prove an important factor in building up and perpetuating happy homes in our midst. The discipline of your school life, however cumbersome it may appear to you now, believe me that to it you will owe your future intellectual and moral growth. Discipline, like the tiny germ that is nourished in the warm soil and strengthened by the refreshing rain, will in due season produce rich, ripe life bearing fruit. I thank you Reverend Mother Superior, for the honor you have paid in asking me to preside at the annual distribution of prizes of your ladies school. It is not the first time I have enjoyed this privilege, and I desire to avail myself of the opportunity to assure you in the name of the people of Prince Albert of their admiration and respect for the remarkable prosperity that has attended your institution from its inception to the present moment. We are proud to be the fruit of your labor, the constant work of your scholars, representing all branches of education; the distinguished department and cultured teachers of the young ladies who have honored us with an exhibition of their improved talents as educationists, show the pleasure with which they have been trained, and redounds as much to the credit of the pupils as their teachers. And Reverend Mother when we consider that these results have been attained within a period of a little more than two school half years notwithstanding the extraordinary difficulties with which you have had to contend, I believe the success of your school is unparalleled in the history of Canada. In conclusion, I pray that a merciful Providence may continue to guide you in the discharge of the high and important interests committed to your charge.

The distribution of prizes was then proceeded with. Mr. Clarke being aided assisted by Mr. C. Mair in the performance of this part of his pleasant duties. The prize list is appended.

The Rev. Dr. Jardine, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, returned on Monday by stage from Winnipeg where he had been in the interests of the High School which was established here by the Foreign Mission over two years ago. On the evening of his return he was serenaded by the P. A. C. Band, to which he replied, thanking the boys for the honor. On Wednesday evening a congregational meeting of St. Paul's Church was held to receive from Dr. Jardine his report and take such action as the congregation deemed in the interests of the Church and the High School. Permission having been given by the general assembly, it was decided by the congregation that Dr. Jardine get leave of absence for such time as he may require for that purpose. PICNIC

On Monday the annual picnic of Lindsay School was held with much success. The day was, on the whole, somewhat showery but this can scarcely be said to have at all damped the ardor of the assembled company or detracted from the pleasure of the meeting. Owing to the high place which Mr. Atwater holds in the esteem and regard of scholars and parents alike, there was a large turn out of the population of Lindsay and to the eye of a stranger there was something very pleasant in observing the affectionate deference of old and young towards the teacher and his kindly bearing towards them all in return. The large company included guests from neighbouring parishes and friends from Prince Albert, for whose comfort and entertainment Mr. Atwater and parishioners were indefatigably careful.

In preparation for the meeting a large and lofty pine tree tower had been constructed adjoining the school house, which did credit to the taste and skill of the builders, and a part of the area enclosed was comfortably floored where the luncheon tables were spread and where afterwards the "evolutions of the many dance" were indulged in.

A marked feature in the preparations was a tall flag staff from which in honor of the jubilee of our Gracious Queen floated an elegant union jack, visible from afar. Early in the day Mr. E. J. Cann of Prince Albert paid a flying visit to the school on a musical mission and put the children through their exercises in good style, and while the company were assembling Mr. T. Adams played a selection of tunes on the harmonium which were much appreciated.

About mid-day the serious business of luncheon commenced and was merrily continued till all were served, the children first, visitors next and the general company afterwards. The elders then in groups smoked and chatted, discussed the prospects of the crops and the affairs of the nation generally, while the youngsters engaged in various games and amusements until at a given signal the whole company assembled in and about the tower. The children then, under the able leadership of Mr. Adams, sang with fine effect the Queen's Anthem in which the whole assembly joined.

Mr. Atwater, as chairman, next offered a few well chosen remarks of a general character. He spoke especially of the harmonious relations which had existed between the inhabitants of Lindsay and himself, eulogised the parents for their laudable anxiety to see that their children should be well educated and the children for their attention and aptitude, which were highly gratifying and encouraging to him as their teacher. He also mentioned the great obligation they were under to the trustees for the interest they took in school affairs and finally, referring to the auspicious date on which their picnic was held, shortly enumerated some of the many reasons which existed for a warm and heartfelt celebration of the Queen's Jubilee. The speaker's loyal sentiments being warmly applauded by the large audience.

Rev. Canon Flett, incumbent of the parish then delivered a short address admirably suited to the occasion. The Canon, from a long experience, fully corroborated the chairman's sentiments as to the kindly and harmonious character of the people of Lindsay. His intercourse with them had always been a source of great pleasure to him and, he sincerely hoped, of some profit to them. He also referred to the Queen's Jubilee and, after some highly apposite historical allusions, forcibly endorsed the chairman's sentiments on loyalty to our Queen and constitution. Having made a genial reference to the day's proceedings, the Canon concluded his interesting address by expressing his earnest wish for the spiritual and temporal welfare of the people.

Capt. Craig was next called upon. He spoke of the importance of harmony everywhere, especially in small communities and complimented the people of Lindsay on the state of matters among them as disclosed in the remarks of the previous speakers. He congratulated the parish on possessing a teacher of the calibre of Mr. Atwater, spoke to the children on the importance of education and counselled them to take full advantage of the unusual opportunity of acquiring learning that was now within their reach. Having referred shortly to the jubilee, he made way for

Mr. Charles Adams, who good naturedly withstood the damping effects of a heavy thunder shower, spoke briefly and pleasantly on the topics of the day and, in connection with the jubilee, made interesting reference to the reign of George the Third, one of the few sovereigns who have lived to see a jubilee.

Mr. Andrew Spence was the last speaker and in his usual kindly style appropriately wound up this part of the programme by a few general observations expressive of the coincidence of his views with the sentiments that had fallen from previous speakers and his good wishes towards the people of Lindsay.

Cheers were then given for the teacher, the trustees, the guests, Mrs. Canon Flett (who had remembered the children in a very agreeable way), the speakers and special cheers for the Queen were called for first in Cree, then in English and given with enthusiasm. Supper now became the order of the day and at this stage your correspondent must call a halt. He understands the votaries of Terpsichore kept it up till the small hours, but this was long after he had sought the arms of "Tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep."

OUR DAILY BREAD

Heavy and sour bread or biscuit has a vast influence through the digestive organs upon the measure of health we enjoy. How important to our present happiness and future usefulness the blessing of good health and a sound constitution are, when it is too late to repair the damage. Notwithstanding these facts, thousands of persons daily jeopardize not only their health, but their lives, and the health and lives of others, by using articles in the preparation of their food the purity and healthfulness of which they know nothing. Perhaps a few cents may have been saved, or it may have been more convenient to obtain the articles used, and the housekeeper takes the responsibility and possibly will never know the mischief that has been wrought. Paterfamilias may have spells of headache, the children may have lost their appetites, or look pale; if so, the true cause is rarely suspected. The weather, the lack of outdoor air, or some other cause, is given, and the unwholesome, poisonous system of adulterated food goes on. Next to the flour, that should be made of good, sound wheat and not ground too fine, the yeast or baking powder, which furnishes the rising properties, is of the greatest importance, and of the two we prefer baking powder, and always use the Royal, as we thereby retain the original properties of the wheat, no fermentation taking place. The action of the Royal Baking Powder, upon the dough is simply to swell it and form little cells through every part. These cells are filled with carbonic acid gas, which passes off during the process of baking.

The Royal is made from pure grape acid, and it is the action of this acid upon highly carbonized bicarbonate of soda that generates the gas alluded to; and these ingredients are so pure and so perfectly fitted, tested and adapted to each other, that during the whole time of baking, and no residue remains to undermine the health, no heavy biscuits, no sour bread, but if directions are followed, every article will be found sweet and wholesome.

BOOTS AND SHOES

A Pioneer's dilemma.

A disastrous ending of a tiresome march. He discovers himself to be in a perplexing predicament.

He flies to the bosom of his family.

With a look of blank advertisements, his wife and children wonder at his pitiable condition.

The muscles of his face become distorted.

His eyes flash, his brain reels. He heaves a deep sigh of regret because he has been swindled by a high priced merchant, who sold him a pair of boots for $5 that ripped from top to bottom.

A family consultation is held. With-out a dissenting voice, they voted to buy in future from Fish.

We know of no way of judging the future but by the past, and judging by the past, the people are justified in giving us their confidence and patronage.
